Who Should read this Guide?

This help manual is intended for anyone participating in our auction platform, including both new and experienced bidders. Whether you are participating in an auction for the first time or looking to refine your bidding strategies, this manual provides essential guidance and support. Auction administrators and staff members involved in the bidding process may also find it useful for understanding bidder interactions and facilitating smoother operations. The manual covers a wide range of topics to ensure that all users have the necessary knowledge and tools to successfully navigate the auction process.

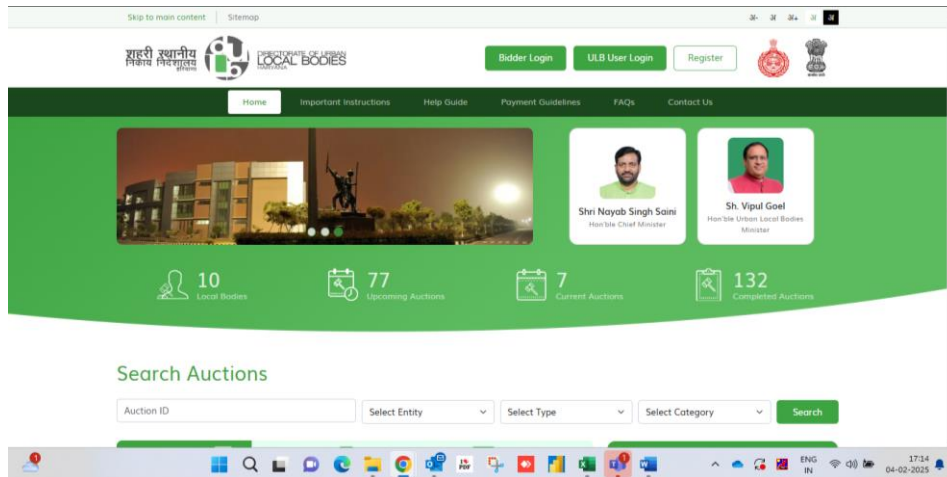

Introduction

Over the past two decades, many countries in Asia have experienced rapid economic growth. This has led to a rapid rise in their urban population. The 74th Constitutional Amendment Act of India lays the foundation for a sustainable Urban Governance System in the Country. While the national governments pursue the goals of economic development, it is generally left for the local governments to manage the rapidly growing urban areas, and to provide the basic services to the residents. In India, Urban Local Bodies are the constitutionally provided administrative units, who provides basic infrastructure and services in urban areas i.e cities and towns. For urban areas, administration of basic civic amenities like water supply, drainage, public health and sanitation are also essential.

To have better co-ordination and control on the working of municipalities in the State, the Directorate of Urban Local Bodies Department, Haryana was established on 1st April 1982. The Department was established to give impetus to the 74th Amendment of the Constitution and to lay a solid foundation for the Urban Development in the State of Haryana.
